NEW LOOK, SAME GREAT CONTENT
Serving the national aging network — including local nutrition programs, national aging associations and state and regional agencies involved with aging — the National Resource Center on Nutrition and Aging (NRCNA) has supported the effective implementation of the nutrition portions of the Older Americans Act (OAA) since 2011. With the relaunch of the NRCNA website, this mobile-responsive online portal is now more valuable than ever before.

NEW WAYS TO SEARCH THE SITE
The NRCNA is now designed to cater to your specific need for information.

On the NRCNA homepage, go to the “Relevant Resources” section. There, you can click on the “I am a...” box to select the user group that best identifies you from the pull-down menu that appears, and/or you can click on the “Interested in...” box to select the type of resource you are seeking from the pull-down menu that appears.

Then, simply click the “Show Recommended Resources” button to receive a listing of curated content tailored just for you.
WHAT’S NEW ON THE NRCNA
The NRCNA is updated frequently and is a source for consistent access to new and late-breaking research, reports, tools, evidence-based practices and business-related models prepared by experts and practitioners from across the country.

The four main areas of content on the NRCNA are:

- Nutrition, Food and Health
- Public Policy
- Training and Events
- Resources

Within each content area, resources are organized by subcategories to assist you in refining your search for information further still. You also have the opportunity to search by the keyword of your choice using the search bar found within each content area.

To find out what new resources have been added to the NRCNA, scroll down the homepage and click on “View Recent Updates.”

If you have any questions while in the NRCNA, help is always a click away. Look out for the help button on each page (see image to the right) – it’s there for you to click on to ask the NRCNA Team a question or leave us your feedback on the site.
MAKING IT EASY TO STAY UP-TO-DATE

The revamped NRCNA makes easier than ever to keep up with trending nutrition and aging information. Scroll down toward the bottom of the NRCNA homepage to the “Popular Topics” section, and select a topic area of interest to find resources related to that topic. Be sure to check back frequently as the topics listed in this section will change periodically.

UPCOMING TRAININGS AND EVENTS

The NRCNA aims to enhance the skills, knowledge, business acumen and sustainability of senior nutrition network programs by providing access to live and online trainings that promote program excellence, service quality and models for social entrepreneurship.

To identify upcoming or archived trainings – live or online – that are relevant to your work, visit the “Training and Resources” section of the site (accessed through the navigation at the top of the NRCNA homepage).

You can search for trainings via the search the search tool or by clicking on select days within the event calendar on the left of the page. To see upcoming trainings or those you may have missed, you can also search by month.
SHARING IS CARING
The NRCNA is a platform for sharing promising practices with your peers. Do you have an innovative tool or resource that you want to share with your colleagues across the Aging Network? The NRCNA welcomes submissions, suggestions and recommendations for additional resources to include in our collection. Please to see our Submission & Collection Policy.

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU
Your feedback on the newly launched NRCNA is welcome! You can reach out to the NRCNA team by clicking on the help button found on each page of the site, or by clicking on the “Contact” link at the top of any page to leave us a message, offer general feedback, report a problem or ask a question:

Mail: 1550 Crystal Drive
      Suite 1004
      Arlington, VA 22202

Phone or fax: Phone: (703) 548-5558
             Fax: (703) 548-8024

Email: ResourceCenter@mealsonwheelsamerica.org

You can also offer feedback directly to the NRCNA team about the resources on the site using the site resource rating tool found at the bottom of each resource page.

We hope you enjoy using the NRCNA site and look forward to hearing from you.